Teaching Activities

2001-2002	Medicine and Society in America	Harvard College	Teaching Fellow (attend twice weekly 2hr lectures and lead once weekly 1hr discussion over one semester with 15 undergraduates)
2002, 2004	Health Policy and Ethics	Harvard College	Tutor (once weekly 2hr seminar over one semester with 3 and 5 college students in 2002 and 2004, respectively)
2002-2003	Core Seminar in Health Care Policy	Harvard Graduate School of Arts and Sciences	Teaching Fellow (attend twice weekly 2hr lectures and lead monthly discussions over two semesters with 16 graduate students)
2004, 2007-2013	HMS HC750, Health Care Policy	Harvard Medical School	Section leader (lead discussion in once weekly 2hr lecture/discussion for one semester (2007, 2008, and 2009) and for fourteen 2hr lecture/discussion sessions over January term (2010 and 2011); guest lecturer (one 2hr lecture per year (2004, 2007, 2009, 2010, and 2011). Sections consisted of 8-14 medical students.

2004-2005	Independent Study: Long-Term Care in Europe	Harvard School of Public Health	Advisor (bi-weekly student meetings over 2 semesters) to one graduate student.
2005-2013	Health Policy 2000, Core Seminar in Health Care Policy	Harvard Graduate School of Arts and Sciences	Guest lecturer (one 2hr lecture each year) for course with 16 graduate students.
2006-2007	HRSA Training Program for Geriatric Clinical Fellowship, Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center	Harvard Medical School	Instructor (with Haiden Huskamp) (six 2hr seminar sessions over 3 month period) to 6 clinical fellows.
2006, 2007	Social Studies 98, Health Care in the United States: Vulnerable Populations, Policy, and the Market	Harvard College	Instructor (2hr weekly seminar over one semester) to 4 to 8 college students in 2006 and 2007, respectively.
2007-2008	Department of Social Studies	Harvard College	Thesis Advisor (monthly student meetings over two semesters) to one college student.
2009-2013	HKS HCP100; SUP 500, Introduction to Health Care Policy	Harvard Kennedy School	Instructor (with Sheila Burke) (weekly 2hr lectures for one semester) for approximately 60 graduate students.
2013-current	Learning Communities Course for Medical Students	Vanderbilt School of Medicine	Guest lecturer to 1 st year medical students (one 45-minute lecture to 100 students)
2015-2016	Foundations of Healthcare Delivery	Vanderbilt School of Medicine	Block leader of Health Policy: Institutions, Politics, and Advocacy (weekly meetings with 10-12 students each month)

2016-2019	Introduction to Health Policy	Vanderbilt School of Medicine	Instructor for approximately 30 graduate students (1 2hr session per week)
2016-	Foundations of Healthcare Delivery	Vanderbilt School of Medicine	Course leader for one-week intersession course for all 4 th year medical students (approximately 80 students)
2020-	Protocol Development and Thesis	Vanderbilt School of Medicine	Course director for proposal development and thesis course for approximately 10 MPH students
2020-	Foundations of Healthcare Delivery	Vanderbilt School of Medicine	One of four course directors for course sequence required of all VUSM students

Research Program

Funded Projects:

Past

2005-	Principal	Thomson Medstat
2006	Investigator	Nursing Home Divestiture and Corporate Restructuring

This contract focuses on corporate divestiture and restructuring within the nursing home industry. The study used On-Line Survey Certification and Reporting (OSCAR) data, secondary data sources, and key informant interviews to describe the extent to which corporate restructuring has taken place and to discuss the implications for policy.

2006-2007	Co-Investigator	Medicare Payment Advisory Commission (MedPAC) Medicare Part D, Long-term Care Pharmacies (LTCPs), and Nursing Facilities

This project focused on the impact of Medicare's new prescription drug benefit, Part D, on the nursing home sector. In addition to providing an overview of the long-term care pharmacy industry, the study used key informant interviews to analyze how the LTCP market is changing with the introduction of Part D, as well as the implications for nursing homes, beneficiaries, and the Medicare program as a whole.

2006-2007	Principal Investigator	Evaluating the impact of Nursing Home Quality Improvement Organizations Under the 8 th Scope of Work. Commonwealth Fund, Award #: 20070005

This project aimed to investigate the feasibility of conducting a larger scale evaluation of the nursing home Quality Improvement Organization (QIO) program. In particular, the feasibility study aimed to develop a collaborative relationship with CMS to identify necessary and available datasets to evaluate the program's impact and to develop the appropriate research design for the future study.

2006- 2009	Consortium Principal Investigator	Improving the Nursing Home Regulatory Survey Process to Promote Resident-Centered Care. Commonwealth Fund, Award #: 20070134

This project, conducted in collaboration with the Rhode Island Department of Health, was a two-phase project to develop and pilot test an enhanced survey process that would use regulatory mechanisms to promote resident-centered care in nursing homes and eliminate whatever barriers to culture change the standard survey process might imply. Dr. Stevenson led the evaluation component of the work to assess the efficacy of using regulatory mechanisms to advance nursing home implementation of resident-centered care.

2007	Co-Investigator	The Brandeis/Harvard Center Study of Managed Care and Drug Abuse Treatment. Brandeis/National Institute of Drug Abuse (NIDA), 5P50DA010233

The Center theme is managed care and treatment of drug abuse. Dr. Stevenson conducted a pilot study under the Center grant to analyze the appropriateness of use of psychotropic medications among nursing home residents. The Harvard site provided methodological support to Center projects.

2007- 2009	Co-Investigator	The Impact of Assisted Living Growth on the Market for Nursing Home Care. Robert Wood Johnson Foundation/Health Care Financing Organization (RWJ/HCFHO), Award #: 61511

The project sought to understand the recent growth in assisted living and how public policy can be applied effectively in the context of this new market paradigm. The project established a national assisted living database to supplement existing long-term care data sources and conducted empirical work to isolate the effect of assisted living growth on the nursing home market.

2008- 2009	Principal Investigator	Is Nursing Home Quality Affected by Corporate Structure? Assistant Secretary for Planning and Evaluation (ASPE) (HHS) SP23320084300EC

This project sought to use detailed nursing home ownership data from the state of Texas to explore changes in nursing home ownership and corporate structures over time and the relationship between these trends and a range of facility outcomes, including quality of care. Based on these analyses, the project made policy recommendations, particularly around the use of detailed ownership data in establishing accountability for care.

2009- 2010	Principal Investigator	Medicare Part D, Long Term Care Pharmacies (LTCPs), and Nursing Facilities. Medicare Payment Advisory Commission. (MEDPAC), E4058946

To update previous work on the impact of Part D in the nursing home setting, we will conduct interviews of key stakeholders on the impact of Part D on medication access, care delivery, and quality of care outcomes for nursing home residents.

2006- 2010	Co-Investigator	KSG Acting in Time Project. Harvard University, Kennedy School

In this project we examine 1) why there is a reluctance by policy makers to address the LTC financing problem; 2) the consequences of not acting soon to address the problem; 3) the degree to which tax policy can be used to expand private LTC insurance coverage; and 4) measures that might be taken to expand informal care giving in the future.

2007- 2011	Co-Investigator	Nursing Home Ownership and Quality of Care: Current Issues and Future Challenges. J.W. Kieckhefer Foundation.

In recent years, the nursing home industry has undergone important changes in terms of ownership conversions and private equity investment. The purpose of this project is to examine the impact of these changes on various cost and quality outcomes.

2008- 2011	Co-Investigator	UPR-CHA Research Center of Excellence: Making a Difference for Latino Health. University of Puerto Rico (UPR)/National Center on Minority Health and Health Disparities (NCMHD) 5P60MD002261

The purpose of this Center grant is to reduce disparities in health and health services for Latinos, through projects involving patient activation and provider education in asthma and mental health care. In addition, research would measure disparities in substance abuse and conduct a small project on mental health disparities in nursing homes.

2008- 2014	Co-Investigator	Evaluation of the Nursing Home Value Based Purchasing Demonstration. L&M Policy Research, LLC/Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services. NVBPD-200 8-02

This study aims to evaluate the impact of the Nursing Home Value Based Purchasing Demonstration, the Federal government's nursing home pay-for-performance demonstration, on a range of nursing home outcomes, including quality of care.

2009- 2014	Co-Investigator	Medicare Part D Plan Generosity & Dual-Eligible Nursing Home Residents. National Institute of Aging (NIA), R01 AG034085
---------------	-----------------	---

This study will examine the effect of Medicare Part D drug plan generosity on medication use and health outcomes for dual-eligible nursing home residents. We will combine drug utilization data from a large long-term care pharmacy, data on health outcomes from the Minimum Data Set (MDS), and Medicare Part A hospitalization claims for the period 2005-2008.

2012- 2015	Principal Investigator	End-of-Life Care in an Evolving Marketplace. Hospice of the Valley Foundation.

This project will explore current trends and future challenges in delivering end-of-life care to Medicare beneficiaries. Several factors will push acute care providers to pursue greater integration of end-of-life care into their scope of services in the years to come, including the continued growth of Medicare Advantage, the emergence of Accountable Care Organizations, and other reforms outlined by the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act. As these changes occur, it is imperative that researchers and policymakers develop the foundation to monitor and assess the dynamic effects of the changing health care market on the cost and quality of the end-of-life care that beneficiaries receive. This project will use Medicare claims and other relevant datasets to pursue several questions of importance, including how the hospice and palliative care sectors have developed across and within markets, how ownership and provider affiliations have impacted quality of care, what role Medicare Advantage plans will have in shaping end-of-life care, and how the Pioneer ACO program and Medicare's shared savings program will impact end-of-life care provision.

2011- 2015	Principal Investigator	National Institute on Aging Public Policy and the Demand for Long-Term Care Insurance 1R01AG041109

This project will use two key databases to study the factors influencing the demand for long-term care insurance and the role of government policy moving forward, including multiple waves of survey data from buyers and non-buyers of LTCi policies and longitudinal enrollment and utilization data from the Long-Term Care Partnership Program, a public-private partnership between states and insurance companies designed to reduce Medicaid spending by delaying or eliminating the need for some people to rely on Medicaid for long-term care services.

2014- Co-Investigator Slowing Medicare Spending: Analysis of Trends
2016 and Their Policy Implications, The Commonwealth Fund, Award Number 20140698.

This project will explore the factors contributing to the recent slowdown in Medicare spending. It will build on earlier work examining the role of demographic changes, changes in coverage, growth in the use of prescription drugs, and other factors in shaping spending growth. The project will also explore how spending growth differs across different types of patients and types of care. Specifically, it will examine how the costs of different types of episodes of care have grown over time and how the use and intensity of post-acute services contributes to spending growth. Policy options to improve the efficiency of health care delivery in light of these trends will be examined.

2011- Principal National Institute on Aging
2016 Investigator Organizational Factors and the Delivery of Nursing Home Care
K01 AG038481

The research focuses on the mechanisms by which organizational or “chain” factors shape the care delivered to nursing home residents nationally. The research plan focuses on this topic in the context of the increased role of Medicare-financed hospice and post-acute care in the nursing home and is supported by an intensive training plan that has components focused on organizational analyses, clinical care delivery in nursing homes, and data and research methods.

2015- Principal Tracking the Impact of Ownership Changes in 2016 Investigator Hospice Care Provided to Medicare Beneficiaries
ASPE (HHSP2332015000026C)

The proposed project will build and extend both phases of our prior research on ownership and the provision of hospice care in the U.S. We will use additional datasets to refine our previous work, extend it to include other care sectors, and pursue additional analyses of interest. We also will update previous analyses beyond 2011 to use the most recent years of data that are available.

2015- Co- Laura and John Arnold Foundation
2018 Investigator (subcontract with Harvard Medical School)
Health Care Markets and Regulation
Lab, Evaluating Accountable Care
Organizations and Improving ACO
Regulation

The research seeks to provide a comprehensive ACO evaluation to inform policy makers of the potential of ACOs to transform provider payment systems and achieve savings through innovation on the part of large provider organizations. Dr. Stevenson’s work will focus in particular on provision related to post-acute care and end-of-life care in ACOs.

2016-2018 Co-Investigator Trends in Medicare Spending: An Analysis on the Dual-Eligible Population, The Commonwealth Fund, Award Number 20160630.

To inform policy decisions regarding appropriate payment methodologies for dual-eligible beneficiaries, this project will examine what factors, including use of institutional long-term care, drive Medicare per-beneficiary spending trends for dual-eligible beneficiaries in the years 2007-2014. To determine how variation in the composition of dual-eligible populations across states influences spending trends, we will explore whether spending trends change when states see disproportionate growth in the size of their dual-eligible populations relative to the growth of their low-income elderly populations.

2017-2018 Principal Investigator Hospice Oversight and the Role of Regulatory Data in the Hospice Quality Reporting Program Gordon E. and Betty I. Moore Foundation

The research study seeks to illuminate the current hospice oversight process and explore whether and how information from hospice quality assurance efforts could fit into future public reporting. The project will merge information about hospice characteristics from Medicare cost reports and Provider of Service files (e.g., agency ownership, accreditation, status, and age) with inspection data from the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (e.g., hospice complaints allegations, deficiencies, and terminations).

2017-2019 Principal Investigator Trends in Nursing Home-Hospice Contracting and Common Ownership Between Hospice Agencies and Nursing Homes ASPE (HHSP233201700036C)

This research explores the dynamics of nursing home-hospice contracting and how it has evolved over time. A key focus is to examine the implications of joint ownership between hospice agencies and nursing homes, but the work also will focus more broadly to understand the implications, if any, to more/less exclusive clinical partnerships between nursing homes and hospice agencies. Outcomes of interest include any use of hospice before death (e.g., among nursing home decedents and residents with limited prognosis), length of hospice use, live discharge from hospice, and frequency of skilled hospice visits overall and at the very end of life. A key area of interest for the research is to illuminate potential implications of nursing home- hospice joint ownership for policies related to payment and quality measurement and oversight.

2017-2019 Co-Investigator Chronic Conditions and Acute Episode-Based Spending in Medicare Commonwealth Fund 20171024

To inform ongoing debates about Medicare’s capacity to meet the needs of beneficiaries with chronic conditions, this project will examine Medicare spending for episodes of care that begin with a hospitalization for a chronic condition. We will assess cross-sectional variation and growth over time in spending per episode, as well as episode-related spending per Medicare beneficiary. Based on our prior work, we will identify chronic conditions that have emerged as key contributors to overall cost-growth, including diabetes, chronic kidney disease, and congestive heart failure. We will also focus on chronic conditions that are disproportionately common among the dual-eligible population, including Alzheimer’s disease and mental health disorders.

2017- Co-Investigator Measuring the Impact of Financial Alignment
2019 for Dual-Eligible Beneficiaries in Tennessee
ASPE (HHSP233201700051C)

The project will study the impact of financial alignment for TennCare dual-eligible beneficiaries and the implications nationally. Specifically, the research will examine how increased availability of aligned benefits impacts health care use and quality of care across all dual-eligible beneficiaries, as well as examine how participation in aligned plans impacts participants’ health care use and quality of care.

2017- Principal Opioid Use in Nursing Homes
2020 Investigator ASPE (HHSP233201700050C)

A key focus of the research is to describe opioid prescribing trends over the last several years across the nursing home population generally and for specific subpopulations, including residents with dementia, hospice enrollees, younger and older residents, and short- and long-stay residents. Better information on nursing home opioid prescribing practices will help target quality assurance and improvement efforts and address concerns on how to better assess and improve pain management for the nursing home population.

2018- Co-Investigator Alzheimer's Disease and Cognitive Impairment
2020 in the Southern Community Cohort Study
National Cancer Institute, 3U01CA202979-03S1. Alzheimer's Disease and its related dementias-focused administrative supplement

Using Medicare claims and nursing home records, this study seeks to identify how the prevalence and incidence of Alzheimer’s disease and related dementias varies by race and other socioeconomic facts among the Southern Community Cohort Study participants.

2018- Co-Investigator TennCare Enhanced Respiratory Care
2020 TennCare Contract, VUMC66928

This project evaluates the TennCare Enhanced Respiratory Care initiative, which introduced several new quality reporting and reimbursement policies for nursing homes that treat TennCare patients who use ventilator or tracheal suctioning services. Study outcomes include changes in ventilator weaning rates, tracheal suctioning utilization, and respiratory-related

Current

2019-2023 Co-Investigator Diabetes, Dementia, and Aging at Home
National Institute on Aging, 1R01AG068606

Managing diabetes may be a significant barrier to aging at home for older adults, especially for those with Alzheimer's disease or related dementias (ADRD). This study will examine these issues and predictors of long-term services and supports use within the Southern Community Cohort Study, a longitudinal cohort study of low-income black and white residents of the Southeast, a region with particularly high rates of diabetes and dementia. Aims include investigating whether Medicaid coverage of home-and-community-based services and Medicare Part D drug coverage influence whether participants use long-term services and supports, simpler insulin regimens, and inpatient and emergency room care and whether participants are treated for hypoglycemia.

2019- Principal-Investigator Elder Justice Initiative: Litigative Analytic Services (15JC1V19P00000597)

The project will provide the DOJ litigative consultant services in support of the Elder Justice Initiative. These services include analyses of a range of administrative, ownership, and quality information for nursing homes nationwide in support of the DOJ's efforts to monitor nursing home quality of care and enforce relevant federal statute.

2022- Principal-Investigator Trends in Ownership Structures of U.S. Nursing Homes and Effect on Quality of Care, Solicitation No. 75P00122R00070

The purpose of this study is to analyze recent trends in nursing home ownership (e.g., for-profit/not for-profit, chain affiliation, private equity ownership, real estate investment trust) over the past 10 years and whether ownership type affects quality of care to residents. Findings from this study will inform nursing home policy to ensure high quality of care. Completion of this research will address i) how nursing home ownership structure has changed over the last 10 years; ii) how these changes have affected the nursing home market (e.g., market share of the various types of ownership and competition); and iii) the implications of these changes for nursing home quality of care and disparities.
